Lew Cody and Norma Shearer in Co-star Roles.

Three women against one lone man! And all three preachy janes, too! That's the predicament Lew Cody finds himself in at the Ceramic theatre, where "The Demi-Bride," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's starring picture for Norma Shearer with Lew Cody is showing.

Girls, if you want to see what a woman can do when a man gets dippy, just watch Norma Shearer work on Lew. Lew, the gay dog, might be a match for Carmel Myers and Dorothy Sebastian in their sophisticated roles, but he was doomed the day Norma came into his life.

The way that girl twists him about her finger when he's supposed to be lots older and knows all about life is a surprise. If she hadn't had experience in handling men she must have read a lot or it was just a gift from Mother Nature.

love to mamma almost under papa's eyes and handing a hot line to that good-looking Sebastian girl at the same time.

Girls, can you imagine pettin' married and goin' right from the altar to the new home and findin' an old flame sleepin' off a jag in a room you had every legal reason to believe was goin' to be your own boudoir?

Regardless of the lower prices of European implements for truck gardening in Belgium, those from America are more numerous.

Among the products being manufactured from corn cobs are maculage, gun cotton, talcum powder, shoe polish, printers' ink, leather textiles and the fireworks called "sparklers."

broke all previous sales records for any new make of car during the first year of production.

In fact the entire production of the previous year—slightly more than 76,000 Pontiac Sixes—had been exceeded at the end of the first half of this year, when a production of 78,138 Pontiac cars had been reached. These figures are in addition to the production of the Greater Oakland Six and the new Oakland All-American Six, recently introduced.

Never before has such an avalanche of orders for Oakland Sixes poured into the factory as followed the introduction of the Oakland All-American Six. Production on this model seems destined to establish new records. The longer wheelbase, increased size and larger engine, together with new Fisher bodies and mechanical features—all at lower prices—have given tremendous impetus to Oakland sales, which together with the steady demand for Pontiac Sixes—stimulated by recent price reduction and new color combinations—promises to keep the Oakland factories humming until well toward the end of the year.

"This year is the greatest in Oakland's history," explained W. R. Tracy, vice president.

REPORT FILED BY PROSECUTOR

Convictions Obtained in Major Cases During Past Year.

Three first degree murder trials were disposed of during the period covered by the fiscal report of Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Brookes and his assistant, John E. Bauknecht, which has just been filed with L. H. Johnson, clerk of the county commissioners' office. The report extends from Sept. 5, 1926, to Sept. 4, 1927.

The three major cases were those of Nick Seacento of Wellsville, Roy Watson of near Irondale, Columbiana county, and Sal Rini, of Wellsville. Murder indictments were returned by grand juries in each of these cases and convictions obtained. Each of these defendants were sentenced to life imprisonment.

It is also disclosed by the record that in 18 cases during the fiscal year penitentiary sentences were pronounced, and in only three instances was sentence suspended.

Of the 20 cases wherein Mansfield reformatory sentence was pronounced, only three sentences were suspended, and all others were placed in execution.

In these different jury trials there were three acquittals recorded and 12 defendants were found guilty. In all there were 47 criminal cases handled in common pleas court during the fiscal term covered by the report.

In probate court, where all cases were handled by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Bauknecht, 84 actions were brought before the court. Of this number 39 were charges of contributing to the delinquency of minor children, and 24 cases were where charges of non-support had been filed.

There were 10 liquor violation cases handled by the prosecuting attorney's office in probate court during the last fiscal year and convictions were obtained in each. Eight other cases wherein misdemeanors were charged were handled in probate court.

Court Makes Ruling.

When a decree of divorce was granted the defendant in the case of Parascave Gurrle against her husband, Mike Gurrle, and on the cross petition of the defendant, the court at the time decreed that the custody of one of the children would be determined later in open court.

Vascilla Gurrle appeared in court and elected to remain in the custody of his mother. The defendant, however, has been ordered by the court to pay the plaintiff $4 per week for the support of minor children, now in the custody of the plaintiff. This case has been pending in common pleas court since May 1926.

Cited for Contempt.

Elmer F. Zurburg, against whom a decree of divorce was granted by the court July 6th last, has been cited by Judge Lones to appear before him Friday and show cause why he should not be punished for contempt and violating a court order. A decree of divorce in this case was granted the plaintiff. An order of alimony was issued, and the bond was fixed at $12,000. A motion for a new trial was overruled, which would have been covered by the bond.

Divorce Case Dismissed.

Divorce action filed in common pleas court July 22nd last by Lillie Pasco against John Pasco has been dismissed from the record on motion of the plaintiff, and at her costs. In this case an alimony order of court was also sought in addition to a decree of divorce.

Suit Instituted.

Chris Paparadis, through his counsel, Metzgar & McCorkhill of Salem has filed a petition in common pleas court against Apostolos Demetris and James Annos to recover $4,172.30, the balance claimed due on a cognovit note for $4,500.

Case Dismissed.

The petition for divorce and alimony filed in common pleas court Jan. 28, 1926 by Ila Lucas against her husband Winnie Lucas has been dismissed by Judge W. F. Lones on a motion of the plaintiff and at her costs. In this action the plaintiff also asked the court to restore her to her maiden name.

Dog Owner Fined.

Charged with harboring a dog without first obtaining a license as provided by an act passed by the last session of the legislature, Cy Hays of West Ninth street, East Liverpool, was fined $10 and costs by Justice M. K. Zimmerman at Lisbon on an affidavit filed by County Dog Warden C. E. Danahay. The fine is the minimum allowed under the new law.

Safer Sea Flying

Airplanes of the simple, land-going type, are unsuited to ocean flying. That is the big lesson of the disasters piling up lately in sea flights until a nation lately jubilant over its "conquest of the air" is heartsick.

Many obstacles may hinder a sea flight. Many things may happen to an airplane. But if it is fitted to alight upon the sea and rest there safely for a reasonable time, when forced down, there is always hope of rescue. Recent aircraft lost on the Atlantic and Pacific were not so fitted.

The "flying boat" is the thing, says the United States navy. It helps considerably merely to substitute pontoons for landing gear, for sea flights, but that is a compromise which does not fully serve the purpose. The "seaplane" type, with the body of the plane above the water, is held inferior in sea-worthiness to the "air boat," in which the plane body is a hull capable of resting in the water safely and moving through it with considerable speed just as any land plane "taxies" along the ground.

The navy has been experimenting with such craft for some time, after a lapse of interest in them which followed the war, and has now given orders to a big airplane firm for some new models of large size and great power. More is expected of them than any of their predecessors, because of the improvement of airplane engines and the perfecting of strong, light materials impervious to salt water which will be used for the construction of the hull.

It may be well to go slow in trans-Atlantic flying for a while, until these experiments have been made. They seem to point the way to safety and efficiency where lately there has been tragic failure.

The Warless A. E. F.

When those ocean liners sailed last week from New York harbor, carrying thousands of American Legion passengers to France, the scenes were very different from those 10 years ago.

Then the boats that carried them were troop ships. Then there was a war to be fought. Sailing dates and destination were kept as secret as possible. The submarine peril was serious.

This month the sailings are accompanied by music and laughter. Paris is the known destination, the annual convention of the American Legion is the purpose. There are former soldiers and their wives and children. There are also war widows and Gold Star mothers whose journey will take them to the quiet and beautiful American cemeteries in France.

On the other side of the Atlantic French torpedo boats and hydroplanes will go to meet the Leviathan, the flagship of this second American Expeditionary Force, and accompany it to Cherbourg. There will be formal welcomes. There will be Salvation Army lasses to distribute doughnuts.

Altogether it's a very delightful expedition and heart-stirring. And the best of it is that there is no war this time. Destruction and death do not lurk in northern France. Peace is not yet perfect and permanently assured. But what we have today is immeasurably better than what we had then—10 years ago.

Who's Who In a Zoo

In a middle western city that has felt considerable pride in its fine zoo, a reporter recently discovered that the animals' cages were not all correctly labeled, that the keeper didn't know much about the animals in his care and that the gazing public, supposedly learning natural history on its strolls through the zoo, really was playing a wild guessing game without ever finding out the right answers.

Gila monsters, armadillos, alligators, lizards, seals, sea lions were all there to be looked at and wondered at. But their identity was only too well concealed by lack of suitable markers. Markers are not so much needed for lions, bears, monkeys and deer. But the stranger animals are not well known.

When the keeper was questioned and found more or less ignorant, he protested that he was only a night attendant. He thought the superintendent or maybe the park commissioner would know more about zoo inhabitants.

It is an amusing situation, perhaps, but one that should not be allowed to exist in any zoo-owning city. There is much fun, of course, in gazing at animals in a zoo even without learning their names. But it is more fun to know which is which and something about their native lands and habits. That's one reason for having zoos.

William, The Engine

Baltimore is having a Baltimore & Ohio centenary celebration along toward the end of this month. One of the big thrills of the occasion is to be offered by William Crooks, a genuine old-timer.

William is a locomotive engine, the first one to run west of the Mississippi river. Back in 1861, William made its first run from St. Paul to Minneapolis, 10 lengthy miles away, causing considerable excitement, prophesying and skepticism along the route.

In those days wood was the fuel. When William Crooks rolls along its way to Baltimore this month coal will be the fuel. This venerable train will travel 25 miles an hour. According to an official of the railroad, William can do that easily.

Well, the passage of such a vehicle ought to be nearly as exciting today as in '61, although for other reasons. Then it was a wonder because it was the first of its order in the sparsely settled west. Now it is a wonder because it is so different from the present-day locomotive. But the great locomotives that haul passengers and freight about the country these days needn't scorn old William Crooks. They may be as obsolete as William one of these days.

Good Stuff Is Very Rare—

SOMEWHERE IN MONTANA, Sept. 14.—This is grim land of the West that was and has passed away. It is a little desolate yet beautiful. Here and there may be found buffalo bones bleached white in a blistering sun. There are purple canyons, green fringed streams and mountains capped with eternal snows.

And beyond lies Butte that hell roaring camp of another day with a net work of rising steel gird buildings. Nearly all vegetation withers and dies as result of the furious fumes from the smelters despite the fact that most of them now are at Anaconda. Humans and horses wear cloths over their noses and mouths to keep out the poison.

Butte in the period of its early romance was perhaps the toughest town in America. Two-gun men from the Bad Lands notched their guns as casually as they spat tobacco juice. To-day that is all changed. It might be a city as effete as Syracuse, New York. Men drank hard, lived hard and died with boots on. The dance halls, gambling dens and red light districts appealed to the worst passions of men and women. The road agent was a hero. Rangers chased Indians with wild whoppers and spitting lead through the main street.

There was no law save that of the gun and the vigilantes. It is only in rare spots the old west peeps dimly through. Early this morning in the smelter a player with a traveling theatrical troupe pointed to a heavily yoked team of drooping oxen toiling across the plain.

And dotting the countryside is a figure straight in the saddle that might have stepped from a Remington. The towns in Montana have the bright newness of those in Kansas. There seem to be many Chinese. And strangely enough many British.

Glittering tourist limousines flash along smooth roads once awash with clouds of dust kicked up by cattle rustlers. It is at dusk that Montana blazes with the fire of a dying sun offering a breath taking beauty that is entrancing.

Montana is a state where you feel a walking stick is as much out of place as the left Smith Brother without a beard. And as for spats, well, they are just downright sappy.

A train conductor who travels through many states is authority that Montana, despite a hard living past, is far more observant of prohibition than most states. "I know many old time prospectors who averaged a pint a day," he said, "and who went on the water wagon when the law went into effect and have remained on ever since."

I heard one expletive that smacked of wagon trail days. A thin man with a patched eye and a long neck brought his gawky inquisitive son down to see the train. The boy was fascinated by the puffing of the locomotive and was peering under it. "You git away from that thar injin," he shouted, "or I'll whale the whey outta you."

Fumes of the smelter have a strange "feel." At first stifling and then a giddiness but old timers become acclimated and live to ripe old age.

At one wayside station there was a fly-blown store with a weather-beaten scarred sign: "The Paris Bon Ton Store for the Elite—wool shirts, hand knitted socks and corduroy breeches." In other words—swell.

You see big mercantile establishments with Jewish names. Many of the owners came to Montana as pack peddlers and with usual sagacity of the race took root and prospered.

This is a perfectly legitimate rave about casual impressions of a great state but there is one passenger who would just as leave—in fact a little rather—be jostled about tonight by the crowds around, say, 47th and Broadway. New York spoils you for any other city in America and that in a way is a great pity.

promise, from the standpoint of practical politics.

Forbes' adherents are making much strong talk about why one of the recognized candidates can gain the prize. That is one of the things at which compromisers are always adept and convincing—advancing their candidate by the process of elimination. Lowden, they say, is too much the candidate of a faction—the agricultural bloc—ever to be nominated even though he may go into the convention with more delegates than can be marshaled into any other camp. Vice President Dawes is too conspicuously a banker, and, moreover, Illinois, failing with Lowden, will never be permitted to bring forward successfully a second choice favorite son.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, and Senator Curtis, of Kansas, are dismissed as favorite sons who have no appreciable national strength. Secretary Mellon is too old. Former Senator Wadsworth, of New York, is too pronounced in his wet views. To Speaker Longworth they concede many elements of strength, but believe him hopelessly handicapped in that he will be unable to command the united support of his home state.

Former Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes, they say, has eliminated himself, and his refusal to be considered as a candidate is just as final as that of President Coolidge.

Secretary Hoover is feared. Herbert Hoover is regarded by the Forbes people as their greatest obstacle, it is stated. They recognize the general and growing strength of the Commerce Secretary and are inclined also to credit the reports that he is potentially at least the candidate of the administration forces. In fact, about all they can do in the way of eliminating Mr. Hoover is to express the belief that he will never be able to muster the votes necessary to capture the nomination. They say that Mr. Hoover is stronger now than he will be six months from now and predict that when President Coolidge and his advisers see this to be true they will be ready to turn to a man like Forbes.

William Cameron Forbes was born in Milton, Mass., in 1870, which will make him 58 years of age when the next campaign is on. He is a grandson of Ralph Waldo Emerson. He was graduated from Harvard University in 1892 and two years later embarked upon a business career as a clerk in a Boston banking house. A few years later he became chief of the financial department of Stone & Webster, electrical engineers and builders and since 1899 he has been a partner in

Sally's Shoulders

by BEATRICE BURTON, Author of "HER MAN," "HONEY LOU," "THE HOLLYWOOD GIRL," ETC.

SYNOPSIS:

READ THIS FIRST:

SALLY JEROME, 20 and clever and pretty, is the prop and mainstay of her family in the absence of her father who has been separated from her mother for nine years.

The family consists of MRS. JEROME, the twins, BEAU and MILLIE; and Sally herself. Mrs. Jerome is a semi-invalid. So Sally does the housework mornings and works in MR. PEEVEY'S office downtown afternoons.

In the flat below the Jerome flat lives young TED SLOAN, who's in love with Sally. Mrs. Jerome is dreadfully afraid that Sally will marry him and leave her to shift for herself, but Sally has no intention. The only man in whom she is interested is JOHN NYE, whose real estate office is across the hall from Mr. Peevey's office. She scarcely knows him, however.

On a hot Monday morning in August Millie drops into Sally's office with the news that she's left her job because the man whose secretary she was "got fresh" with her. Millie is forever quitting her jobs for this reason, although Beau's girl, MABEL, WILMOT, says the real reason Millie quits is that her employers do NOT make love to her. Mabel says that Millie just won't stay on a job unless she's "having a thrill" there.

Millie catches a glimpse of John Nye and decides to run over and ask him if he needs a stenographer. Sally stops her, but that night Nye asks her if she knows a good secretary who's out of a job. He needs one for the one who has been working for him is to be married. Reluctantly Sally tells him about Millie. She hates the thought of that young siren working for the only man she cares a snap of her fingers for.

Millie's not home when she gets there, Beau is, however, and he asks her to make preparations for a party that his Mabel wants to give at their flat the next night. Sally promises that she will provide sandwiches and fruit punch, expecting Mabel to pay for it, of course. At midnight Millie comes home from an evening's pleasure, and Sally begins to tell her about Nye's job.

CHAPTER VI.

Millie was pleased as Punch at the prospect of going to work for John Nye. But because she was pleased, she pretended not to be. She was full of such tricks.

She stood before her toilet glass, seemingly in deep, dark thought, while she wiped the "Chinese black" from her eyelashes and brows with a wad of wet cotton.

She wasn't half so pretty by the time she had finished. For her lashes and brows were even lighter than her hair, naturally, and gave her an insipid look.

"We-ell," she began doubtfully. "I'm not so sure that I want to work for your good looking friend, Nye, now that I have the chance to. For one thing, I don't know how much he pays a girl. I certainly am not going to work for a cent less than thirty smackers a week, and that's THAT!"

"Shall I tell him so?" Sally asked, with a twinkle in her eyes. She knew that nothing could keep Millie from taking that job.

Millie shook her head with its mop of honey-gold curls.

"You needn't bother. I'll go and see him myself in the morning," she said with a great show of indifference. She yawned lazily. "Of course, I hate to work in a little one-horse office. I'd rather be in a big place like Bursall's where there are a lot of girls. It's more fun."

Sally knew that this was not true. She knew perfectly well that Millie could have more "fun" in an office containing one good-looking man than in a hundred offices filled with girls. Millie had no interest on girl friends. She was a man's woman, pure and simple.

"Well, then, why didn't you stay on at Bursall's?" Sally asked quietly.

"You know why I didn't stay!" Millie snapped out at her, all the lazy sweet drawl gone from her voice. "Haven't I told you a dozen times how old Bursall tried to get gay with me, the fresh old bird? — You think this Nye will behave himself, don't you?"

Sally did not answer. She wondered if John Nye would want to behave himself with Millie in the office. Millie, who was all allure and invitation from the golden crown of her head to the soles of her little satin-shod feet. . . . Would any man want to behave himself with Millie? Especially if Millie didn't want him to behave himself!

"Well, it all depends on what you mean by 'behaving' himself," she answered slowly. "I think he's going to fall in love with you, if that's what you're talking about."

She was sure that John Nye would fall in love with her, and she fell asleep an hour later with a very heavy heart.

THE next morning Sally was up with the early sun. She hurried with her work, feet flying, fingers flying. Breakfast over and out of the way. Dishes done. Beds made. Furniture dusted. Ferns and geraniums watered. Beau's ties pressed.

At ten o'clock Sally dressed herself in her plain little blue linen business dress, and went down to Porter street market to get the things for Mabel's party that night. Sandwich bread, sweet butter, boiled ham, and fruit for the punch.

When she got home, Millie was gone to her appointment with John Nye. Her nightgown lay where she had stepped out of it on the bedroom floor. Her bed was unmade, and her dressing table was littered with flesh-colored powder, open rouge boxes, combs, and soiled handkerchiefs. The tiny bottle of "Chinese black" had tipped over and there was a large stain of it on the white linen cover.

"Pet's sake!" said Sally under her breath, whipping off the cover and putting the stopper in the little bottle.

She thought of Millie, rolling her blue eyes with their fringe of blackened lashes at John Nye by this time no doubt. Smiling at him with the soft scarlet bow of her mouth. Talking to him in that silky slow voice of hers.

"Oh, misery!" said Sally aloud, and there was very real misery in the sound of her voice.

She went out into the kitchen to squeeze lemons and oranges for Mabel's punch, and the feet that were usually so light and swift dragged a little.

That noon when Sally reached the top floor of the Nye-Naylor building, she went straight to the door of John Nye's office and turned the knob.

It did not open. It was locked.

"Well, of all things!" Sally said aloud, and then knocked smartly on the door.

There was no answer. She knocked again. Still no answer.

Then, as Sally was turning away to go into Mr. Peevey's little room, a sudden illuminating thought came to her. . . . John Nye and Millie had gone out to lunch together! That must be why the door was locked and the office empty. That must be why.

"Good morning," she said to Mr. Peevey so spiritlessly that he looked up at her in alarm, thinking that she must be ill. But he didn't ask her if she was. He didn't believe in petting the people who worked for him. . . . asking after their health and giving them raises in their salary and such fool things! Not he!

There was more work than usual that afternoon, as it happened, and the shadows were long and blue before Sally started home at seven.

As she opened the door of the flat with her latch-key and stepped into the hall she could hear Beau talking on the telephone.

His voice was loud and deep, and it resounded through the small rooms. "Yeah, and bring along a cork-screw," he was saying joyfully. "It's going to be that kind of a party. Get me?"

"Oh, Beau, I hope you're not going to have anything to drink tonight," she said to him when he hung up the receiver.

He laughed down at her from his height. "Hello, Katy Kill-joy!" was all he said in answer to that. Then he went on:

"Ted Sloan was up here a minute ago to tell you that he couldn't keep some date or other he had with you tonight."

"Yes, and let me tell you what your friend, Nye, pulled on me today!" added Millie, coming out of her mother's bedroom in a flowing cotton kimono and house-slippers. "I went down to see him bright and early, and he was just locking up his office. It seems his mother's been taken sick at some resort or other where she's spending the summer, and he had about two seconds to make his train. He was going to her, he said, and didn't know when he'd be back. He was awfully sorry—but I told him I'd wait 'till he came back to town. I need a rest, anyway, for a couple weeks in this awful weather."

Millie was always taking little rests and vacations.

"Well, I'm glad I don't have to go out with Ted, anyway, tonight," sighed Sally thankfully. She followed Millie into their bedroom and got into her own house-slippers and her pink calico apron.

"We'll have just a pick-up supper," she decided, "because I've got to make all those sandwiches and the punch for the party. . . . Beau, PLEASE don't put any liquor into the punch. You know Mother won't like it."

But Beau, struggling with a new collar and a too-thick necktie before the chiffron in his room, pretended not to hear.

The party was a noisy affair. Sally, lying in bed with a book, could hear bursts of shrill wild laughter every now and then above the music of the phonograph. Once Millie screamed at the top of her voice, and there came the distant sound of a glass crashing to pieces on the kitchen floor.

"There's fifty cents gone for good!" thought Sally, who had to pay for these things usually. "Oh, dear, I hope they're not drinking! They should not."

But she fell asleep soon after ten o'clock with all the noise and clamor at its height around her. She had been up for sixteen hours, and she was worn out.

She didn't know what time it was when a sudden flood of bright light woke her up. Blinking and confused, she opened her eyes.

Beau's girl, Mabel, had come into the room and was leaning over her. "Time to say goodnight, darling," she said thickly, and as she spoke Sally caught the odor of gin on her breath. "Too bad you were too tired to come to the party, and thanks for a beautiful time. The punch and the sandwiches were wonderful."

Sally was wide awake now. "That reminds me," she said clearly. "I kept the grocer's bill so I could show you how much I spent. It's right here in my purse."

"Oh, don't bother me with it, please!" begged Mabel prettily. "Beau will pay you. He said he would—" and she danced out of the room rather unsteadily, banging herself against the edge of the door as she went.

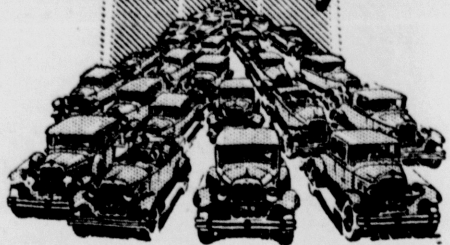

"Wait a minute! Mabel, wait a minute!" Sally called to her in distress. "Wait a minute, Mabel! I've got to see you!"

Didn't Mabel know that Beau never paid for anything? Not even his laundry? . . .

But Mabel was gone. The sound of her gay voice chattering to Beau, died away as she left the little flat and went down the stairs that led to the street.

PLAN BLOOD TEST TO CLEAR UP STRANGE BABY CASE

WOMAN CLAIMS SHE WAS GIVEN WRONG INFANT

Hospital Authorities Advised Her Baby Was Boy.

SUIT IS FILED

Judge Weygandt Called Upon to Play Role of King Solomon.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 14.—Becoming more complicated with each development, the habeas corpus action of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Smith, seeking to compel a local hospital to produce a baby boy in place of the girl baby now being held by Mrs. Smith, today had involved four infants with the possibility of a blood test being ordered in an attempt to clear up the case.

On August 22, last, Mrs. Smith gave birth to a child which she claims, hospital authorities told her was a boy. Several days later she discovered that the baby she was nursing was a girl. After a preliminary investigation, hospital officials admitted there had been a "technical mistake," but declared "there was now no doubt that Mrs. Sam Smith's baby was really a girl."

This failed to satisfy Mrs. Smith and habeas corpus proceedings were filed in an attempt to force the institution to produce one "baby George" Smith. Three other mothers of infants involved in the controversy say they are satisfied that they have received their own babies and "will never give them up."

In the meantime Common Pleas Judge Carl V. Weygandt, playing the role of a modern King Solomon, has called upon physicians for advice regarding possible blood tests to help solve the unique lawsuit.

"Nothing will be left undone to clear up this strangest of all lawsuits," the judge declared, "if physicians tell the court that blood tests will aid in a solution, I certainly will order them."

JAIL DELIVERY AT ASHLAND

ASHLAND, O., Sept. 14.—Authorities here today were searching for two prisoners who escaped last night from the Ashland county jail, apparently with the aid of outside accomplices.

The prisoners, Howard White, 45, of Perryville, and Harry Miller, 27, of Ashland, used a 10-foot board, which authorities say was passed to them from outside, to pry off a lock from a window, and loosen bars, after which they dropped 20 feet to freedom on a ladder made of bed clothing. The escape was discovered early today by Sheriff Clem V. Hassinger. Harold Stutz, another prisoner, refused to join the escapees.

White was to have been tried on a liquor possession charge today, and Miller was scheduled for arraignment on a charge of attacking a 16-year-old girl.

BIG CROWD AT COUNTY FAIR

Twelve Thousand People on Grounds at 10 a. m.

With the weather propitious and other conditions almost ideal, a throng of between 18,000 and 20,000 persons was expected at Lisbon today for the second and feature day of the Columbiana county fair.

It was estimated over 12,000 persons, a new record, were in the fair grounds at 10 o'clock this morning. All exhibits, including live stock and poultry, are heavier than a year ago. It was necessary to provide additional space for live stock entered by the 4-H club and also the breeders of large cattle. Two different buildings are being occupied by poultry this year, where only one was necessary in 1926.

Race entries are also more numerous, the opening events being scheduled for today.

Retail merchants' division of the East Liverpool Chamber of Commerce has an exhibit in the main building. In the background is a large map showing contributory trading area and in the center of the booth is a dinner set display.

The county health bureau has a booth in charge of Dr. T. T. Church of Salem and Miss Nell Masters, county health nurse. In the exhibit are photographs explaining feeding methods for children and ways of combating infantile paralysis.

With approximately 80 entries from various parts of eastern Ohio and a few from western Pennsylvania, county fair race events this year are expected to develop the keenest competition in a number of years.

Three events are slated for today and three more for tomorrow.

Pioneers of Petroleum Fraternity to Get Recognition.

MEET AT TULSA
Men With 50-year Records Hunting Liquid Named.

TULSA, Okla.—Thirty-seven veterans—the oldest of the oil industry—pioneers in the great enterprise of finding the "black liquid gold," have been nominated to receive the recognition of the Petroleum fraternity, which will gather here during the fourth international petroleum exposition, from Sept. 24 to Oct. 1.

All of these thirty-seven pioneers who fought against tremendous odds to wrest the precious fluid from the bosom of the earth and to establish an industry which has made possible many modern comforts, have followed the thrilling and fascinating "game" for fifty years, or more, ever heeding the calls of "lady luck." Some have obtained riches, while others, fickle fate has left nothing but rich memories.

Are Old Timers.
Most of the veterans began their activities in the oil business in the eventful sixties, and one, Samuel Smith, of Titusville, Pa., helped his father drill the history-making Drake well—the first oil well drilled in America, in 1859.

The two oldest in the group are Jacob Sheasley, Franklin, Pa., and Charles McArthur, Kinzua, Pa., each 93 years old. They are still actively engaged in oil leases.

Thrilling are the tales many of these veterans tell, of their experiences in the fields; of oil well fires and explosions; of gushers that flooded the countryside; of fights for leases and pipeline right-of-way, in which many have lost their lives, the riding of mud scows, filled with oil, down the crest of tides on famous Oil Creek in Pennsylvania—such was their lot to contend with, and with only primitive methods and materials at hand.

Pioneer Methods.
Wells were drilled with a "Spring Pole" and bits, which resembled more a toothpick when compared with the huge boring tools of modern equipment. Horse, oxen and man formed the power. Billions of feet of natural gas, now so carefully preserved, went to waste.

Eighteen of the list of veterans, came from Pennsylvania, the birth place of the oil industry, while Oklahoma, the present center of the business, comes second with eleven. Three are from California, two from Texas and two from Ohio, and one from Arkansas.

TO DEBATE ON MARSHALL BILL

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 14.—Both sides of the controversy over the Marshall bill, restoring the powers of justices of the peace in Ohio in favor cases, will be thoroughly aired when State Senators L. T. Marshall, of Xenia, author of the measure, and George H. Bender, Cleveland, one of its leading opponents, will debate at a meeting of the Columbus Junior Chamber of Commerce here Tuesday night. Bender led the successful fight which has resulted in the Marshall bill being submitted for a referendum vote in November.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Fervish trading in United States Steel and General Motors at new peak prices, broke out today with the sounding of the opening gong in the stock market.

The first sale of General Motors, a block of 8,000 shares, was recorded at 25 1/2 to 25 3/4, after which the stock advanced to 25 3/4 for a new gain of 4 points. Steel common added 1 1/2 points, to sell at 157 1/2, also a new high record.

Wall street's enthusiasm for the stocks of the well established industrial and railroad corporations with favorable earnings and dividend-paying records, is based chiefly on the "easy money" situation and the confident belief that American investors will be satisfied with a smaller yield on their invested funds. Each 1 per cent. decline in income yield is equivalent to 20 points, more or less, on the selling price of a stock, and this has been an important factor in the sharp advances in the high-grade dividend stocks.

Loadings of 1,117,000 cars of revenue freight in the week of September 3, reported today, set a new high record for the year in freight movements, which was significant in view of the heavy decline in coal shipments and the lower car requirements in the lumber and cotton industries. Actual movements of merchandise was larger than in the corresponding week last year, which is saying a great deal.

PLAN FEDERAL OPERATION OF MUSCLE SHOALS

Leaders Have Plan of Disposing of "White Elephant."

WAR PROJECT

Nitrates and Fertilizers Would be Manufactured.

By William K. Hutchinson.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—A plan for federal operation of the $100,000,000 Muscle Shoals project over a limited period of years was under consideration today by administration leaders as a means of disposing of the government's "greatest white elephant."

The project would be operated by the government primarily for the manufacture of nitrates and fertilizers, under this compromise plan, with provisions for the sale of all surplus power to private companies on fixed terms.

This disposition of the great water-power site would be a partial victory for the insurgent bloc of congress, which has fought for eight years to prevent private operation of the project. The bloc, under the leadership of Senator George W. Norris (R) of Nebraska, was reported to be seeking support for a ten-year government-operation program but there were indications the compromise, if adopted, would limit government operation to from three to five years.

Administration leaders gave the government-operation plan serious thought, it was said, because of the fact that the insurgent bloc holds the "balance of power" in the next senate and can block all action on Muscle Shoals if it so chooses. Rather than go into another presidential campaign with the project remaining "white elephant" on the administration's hands, it was said, Republican leaders, avowed a compromise with the insurgents.

"Something ought to be done with the Muscle Shoals project in the next session of congress," said one administration leader. "With the insurgents in power, we can't expect action on any bill leasing the project to private interests. It will be good politics however to get this problem out of the way over the next election—good politics to both Republican and Democrats—so I won't be surprised if congress finally agrees to government operation of the project for a few years. Such a compromise at least would be an experiment and then the country could learn whether or not the government can successfully undertake the operation of a private business."

The Muscle Shoals fight incidentally will reflect the battle over the gigantic Boulder dam project. In the latter case, a majority of congress probably will favor government operation of the western project with provisions for private sale of surplus power. If this is done, it would greatly reduce opposition too federal operation of the Muscle Shoals project.

The project was built during the war by the government for the manufacture of nitrates. Following the war, the government completed the huge Wilson dam at the site and for the last eight years, congress has been in a deadlock over plans for its operation in the future.

TODAY

Scientists say we have at least one hundred million centuries left, for the sun's heat will last that long. But the earth must die in time.

How wise will these last two men be, what wonders will our half savage race now only 17,000 years from the Stone Age, accomplish in one hundred million centuries?

And how interesting to reflect that we may come back and live through them all.

The charming, youthful, unsophisticated and innocent Mrs. Lita Gray Chaplin tells all reporters: "I wish Mr. Chaplin every happiness, but I am through with men forever."

The beauty of it is that she believes it just as Eve believed it after she had been married to Adam for a week, and again after little Cain arrived, and especially after Adam blamed it on her, when the apple episode drove them from Eden.

A young woman in Los Angeles whose father struck her in the face exclaimed, "I wish you were dead!" The father clutched his heart and fell dead instantly. That happens rarely and fortunately. If it always happened there would be no birth control problem.

REALTY MEN'S LICENSE LAW IS EFFECTIVE

Dealers and Salesmen Must Obtain State Permits.

PENALTY IS $500

Brokers Pay $10 First Year, Then $5 Annually.

Real estate dealers and salesmen who do not have a license by tomorrow will be subject to a fine of $500 or imprisonment for a term not to exceed one year.

Fifteen thousand application blanks for brokers and salesmen have been prepared by the state board of real estate examiners who recently fixed September 15 as the dead line for doing business without a permit.

Licenses for real estate dealers will be $10 for the first year and $5 for each subsequent year. Real estate salesmen will be required to pay $5 for the first year and $2 for each succeeding year. Brokers must also post a $1,000 surety bond.

DEATH LIST IN TOKYO STORM PLACED AT 400

2,300 Others Injured in Tidal Wave and Storm.

TOWNS INUNDATED

TOKYO, Sept. 14.—Four hundred persons were either dead or missing and 2,300 were injured as the result of the tidal wave and typhoon which struck the prefecture of Kumamoto yesterday, according to official figures today.

The towns of Kojima and Nakamura were particularly hard hit by the tidal wave, which rolled over the two towns and carried houses inland as far as two miles.

The typhoon which accompanied the tidal wave also took a heavy property toll in the same prefecture, uprooting trees, tearing down lines of communication and destroying buildings.

The railroad station at Yokohama was unroofed by the winds, a warehouse in the same city was whirled high in the air, a freight train was derailed, more than 150 houses were damaged and three sections of the city were flooded by the rains which accompanied the disturbance.

Other districts were also heavily hit by the storms which swept through Japan. The extent of the damage will probably not be known for several days.

Rescue work in the stricken areas was being hampered today by the continuation of the rains.

No accurate check has yet been made of the fishing boats that were off the coast of Kumamoto, when the tidal wave struck. It is feared that many of these vessels were lost.

WELLSVILLE LAUNCHES PLANS FOR HALLOWE'EN FETE

ORGANIZATION WILL MAP OUT DAY'S DETAILS

Committees to be Named at Next Week's Meet.

ALL-DAY EVENT

Music, Dancing, Parade and Sports Planned by Sponsors.

Tentative plans for a one-day Halloween observance, similar to Wellsville's celebrations of a decade ago, including sports, parade, costumes, dance, and other kindred events, were outlined at a meeting of sponsors last night in the city hall building.

The conference was proposed and called by Mayor W. L. Fogo who presided as chairman.

Representatives were present from the Wellsville Nash Motors baseball club, the American Legion, the merchants' division of the chamber of commerce, auto club, business men and various lodges, besides individuals interested in the promotion of the fete.

A two or three-day observance was suggested at first, but on account of the fact that Halloween is preceded by Sunday, which would necessitate a break in the program, it was decided to pack the complete festivities into a one-day gala affair.

Sports events will take up the afternoon. Parade, bands, music, dancing and costumed events will be carried for the evening. Specially prepared floats will compete for prizes.

A definite organization which will take charge of arrangements for the program will be completed at another meeting in the city hall next Wednesday night.

MERCHANT HAS RECORD POLICY

John Wanamaker Carries $7,500,000 Insurance.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Rodman Wanamaker, New York merchant, carries $7,500,000 insurance on his life, the largest amount carried by any American, according to a survey made public today by the Spectator company of this city.

Babe Ruth is insured for $5,000,000. Gloria Swanson carries $2,000,000, and Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks $1,000,000 each. Charlie Chaplin is insured for $1,000,000 and so is Will Rogers.

In fact, 187 Americans carry insurance of $1,000,000 or more.

Besides Ruth, the following carry $5,000,000 insurance: Adolph Zukor, Dr. Frederick G. Banting, discoverer of insulin as a cure for diabetes; William Fox, Jesse Lasky, Frank B. Book, Detroit; S. E. Kresge, Horvitz V. Brook, Detroit, and James H. Rand, Jr., Buffalo.

In the $4,000,000 or over class are: Mrs. E. G. Burham, St. Louis; Ralph Jonas, Brooklyn; A. H. Lanwhier, Holland, Mich.; Percy Rockefeller, New York; and Mrs. Henry E. Yeiser, Cincinnati.

STEUBENVILLE MAN RE-NAMED AS MODERATOR

J. H. Mosel Will Head Presbytery Another Year.

TWO-DAY SESSION

Conference Held at Yellow Creek Presbyterian Church.

Re-election of Elder J. H. Mosel, of Steubenville, as moderator of the Steubenville presbytery of the Presbyterian church, of East Liverpool, was elected temporary clerk.

Committee reports chiefly occupied attention of presbytery delegates at yesterday's meetings, including reports from the evangelism committee, delegates to the synod, national missions, foreign missions and resolutions committees.

Rev. Selby F. Vance, D. D., was the chief speaker. Dr. Vance discussed "Why I Am a Minister."

In the afternoon reports were heard from additional committees including those on county and church extension, freedmen and church erection.

LOCAL GIRL WED TO CHESTER MAN

Announcement was made today of the marriage of Miss Martha Sommers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Saul Sommers, of Washington avenue, to Clarence Manes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Manes, of Chester, which was solemnized Monday at the parsonage of the First Christian church in New Cumberland by the pastor, Rev. J. E. Kilwell.

They will reside temporarily at the home of the bride's parents.

M. P. SOCIETY HOLDS MEET

Mission Members Entertained at Hartman Home.

Mrs. Bernard Hartman was hostess to members of the Women's Missionary society of the First Methodist Protestant church last evening at her home in the Lisbon road.

The business session was followed by a social hour, with contests and music as diversions. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Fred Lowary, Mrs. Charles Hurd and Mrs. L. C. Momberg.

At the close of the affair luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Bernice.

The October meeting of the society will be held at the home of Mrs. Redney Boso.

the firm of J. M. Forbes & Company.

Mr. Forbes was a close friend of the late President Roosevelt who in 1901 appointed him a member of the Philippine Commission. He served as secretary of commerce and police in the Philippine government until July 1, 1908, when Roosevelt made him Vice-Governor General of the islands. A little more than a year later President Taft appointed him Governor General and he held that office almost four years, when he resigned. In 1921 he was named by President Harding as a member of the Wood-Forbes Commission to investigate conditions in the Philippines.

His long experience in the Islands qualified him as a diplomat as well as an administrator, his friends say, and he is also an authority on Far Eastern affairs.

Mr. Forbes has been an overseer of Harvard University and is a member of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Corporation, a trustee of the Carnegie Institute of Washington and of the Tampon Normal and Agricultural Institute, and honorary president of the China Society of America.

He is a man of commanding presence and is rated as a forceful and effective speaker. He has never held an elective office, so his record as a vote-getter has yet to be made.

He is unmarried, which may or may not recommend him to women voters.

SUSPECT MURDER IN GIRLS' DEATH

NEWARK, O., Sept. 14.—Paul Davis, 30, was to be arraigned here today charged with the death of Miss Alice Claypool, 20. A warrant charging the girl's death to Davis was filed by M. A. Claypool, the girl's father, after an unofficial autopsy was reported to have disclosed her stomach contained a quantity of poison.

Miss Claypool died Saturday. She became ill, according to her father, after attending a dinner with Davis, and accompanying him on an automobile ride, last Thursday. The girl's organs were to be sent to pathologists of the Ohio State university for analysis, today.

WHAT PRICE GLORY CERAMIC

ALL THIS WEEK.

THE MIGHTIEST PICTURE OF ALL

CHARMAINE PLAYS THE ROLE OF PEACEMAKER

"I'LL DEAL YOU THE CARDS FOR HER"

BOUND AGAIN FOR WAR AND GLORY

EIGHTEENTH EPISODE

THE feud has reached the breaking point. Words no longer qualify as weapons in the duel. Charmaine plays peacemaker, but there is no peace.

"I'll go outside and shoot you at fifty paces for her," challenges Quirt.

"You must think I'm a big boob. You—Harry Quirt, the best pistol shot in the service."

They sit down and eat, but satisfied hunger fails to cool boiling blood.

"Why don't you be a good guy and blow your brains out?" Flagg banters.

"That wouldn't do any good," returns Quirt. "You've been getting along for years without brains."

Quirt gets an idea.

"I'll deal you the cards for her." And Flagg agrees.

Quirt deals. "High man takes the girl. Low man takes a walk."

Flagg lays his pistol on the table. He grabs Quirt's cards, also his own. Realizing his trickery has been exposed, Quirt smashes the lamp and dashes out the door. Flagg fires his pistol in the air. "Captain you have my heart," chirps Charmaine. Flagg moves to clasp her to him.

"Non! Non! Non! Not zat way—you have my heart but my love is for ze Sergeant."

Flagg is resigned. "I guess that let's me uot," he surrenders. And then—

The bugle sounds. Into the lines again.

"Charmaine, girl, this war and glory racket is like a religion. We break every pledge but one. Somehow that call finds the old marines always faithful."

"I salute you, mon Capitaine, for France."

And the march to the lines find Captain Flagg supporting the crippled Quirt—both bound again for war and glory.

SAMMY COHEN IN EPIC FILM

Ted McNamara Also
Riot in "What Price Glory."

When Samm Cohen and Ted McNamara started work in the comedy sequences of "What Price Glory," the epic war film now in its third day at the Ceramic theatre, they were not even well known actors. Before the film had been half finished, their names were neatly affixed to new contracts, and now comes the news that their first starring film, "A W. O. L.," has just been completed at the Fox studios.

One look at the two clowning their way through the war scenes in "What Price Glory" was enough for the Fox officials to realize that a new comedy team has found its way to the screen. Sammy Cohen is Private Lipinsky, while McNamara as Private Kiper is no less a person than the captain's orderly. Together they contribute most of the comedy in an extremely funny film, and the Fox scenario staff had to sit up nights concocting new gags for the comical pair.

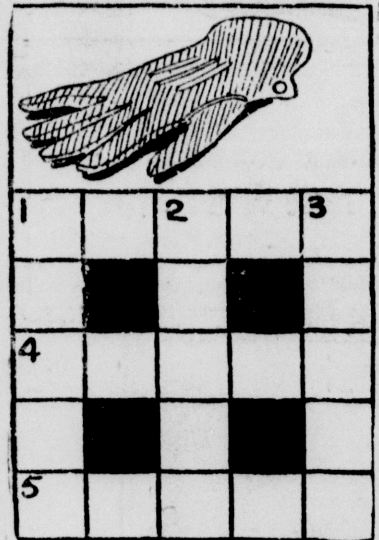

At first Raoul Walsh intended to give them only a minor part in the production, but so fast and furious was the fun in the few scenes he filmed that Lipinsky and Kiper began to rival the principals. They got riotously drunk in a French cafe in one of the funniest scenes on record, and Lipinsky in particular attains such a state of saturation that when he tries to stand at salute, he wavers to and fro like the Leaning Tower of Pisa.

Previous to their appearance in this photoplay, the pair had many varied experiences. Cohen had played minor roles and "bits," while McNamara began his career by being a member of a Lilliputian opera company that toured the Orient, Africa and Australia. During these days, his salary was precisely sixty-two and a half cents per week.

In 1918, he breezed onto Broadway and into an important role in the musical comedy, "Irene." Thence he passed to the part of the trainer in "Batling Butler." Immigrating to California, he played in several pictures, and then was picked up by Raoul Walsh for Private Kiper, a part he had wanted to play ever since he saw the stage version of "What Price Glory" in New York.

The Review-Tribune Offers Booklet on How to Get Ahead

Every man or woman who works through a normal life time earns many thousands of dollars. Yet only one out of 100 dies rich, and only three out of 100 die in comfortable circumstances. Only 15 out of 100 leave any money or insurance or property whatever.

The rest die poor, and to a great extent live poor. What becomes of all they earn? Most people do not know. Most people do not know how to manage their money, how to make it serve them best, how to get most results from what they earn.

"How to Get Ahead" is a 32-page booklet compiled by experts and showing how to handle your income, be it small or large. Simple facts any one can understand which will help make life more happy for those who read it. With tables, charts, budget, and account pages.

Tiremakers Defend Lead In Second Pennant Clash At Newell

Dailey's Club Set to Even Series Count

Grimm and Herman on Mound in Thursday Conflict.

HESTER Superior Corda will defend their one-game lead in the City Industrial League championship series tomorrow afternoon when the Riley nine clashes with the Homer Laughlin 12s in the second game of the pennant drive at Newell park.

The Tiremen have a distinct advantage at the present moment, but the Potters, always game to the last ditch, can be depended upon for a fight all the way tomorrow evening, with Harry Grimm, formerly of Cumberland, laying down the barrage.

Grimm and Sam Herman, of the Tires, both right handers, are certain to be the hurling nominees, with Ashe and Crandall resting for the nine-inning battle scheduled for Saturday afternoon at Chester.

The Potters have bowed to the Chester club five consecutive times since the beginning of the second half and Pilot Pearl Dailey says he can't help but feel that their luck is bound to change.

Grimm pitched a nice game in his only start against the Superior Cords during the second half play, and although he lost the decision, the blame really could not be laid on any shortcomings in his delivery.

Sam Herman's most recent achievement was a one-hit game against the K. T. K. club, the victory winning the second half championship for the Tiremakers.

Riley will make no change in his batting order for the second conflict, with the exception of the pitcher, while Dailey, at Newell, may send an other left-hander into the fray.

If this is the case, Rubin will go to right, Webber into left, and Crawford will rove centerfield, Lange will catch Grimm's curves.

The probable lineup:

Superior Cords:	Homer Laughlin:
J. Evans, 2b.	Crawford, mf.
Parsons, lf.	Webber, lf.
Melchori, ss.	Finley, ss.
McConnell, mf.	Herbert, 3b.

Wright Hurls One-Hit Game For Sherwood

With Mackall pitching a one-hit game, the Sherwood Cardinals trimmed the K. of C., 2 to 0, in a Community league clash last evening at the Northside, the winners scoring a run in the fourth and one in the fifth.

Wolfe also turned in a good hurling performance for the losers, handing out only four safe drives, two of which are credited to Catcher Densmore.

IT TAKES JACK COUPLE OF ROUNDS TO GET USED TO CALCIUM'S GLARE

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 14.—Every battle that Jack Dempsey has fought under the calcium rays through the last eight years has resulted in somebody whaling him lustily in the first or second round.

And so Dempsey has started to playing moonlight sonatas upon the countenances of his sparring partners so as to accustom himself to night work.

"This night work is to get me used to the lights," explains Dempsey. It is recalled that before Dempsey could get used to "em in the Brennan fight in Madison Square Garden, New York, in 1920, Brennan hit him here, there and almost anywhere.

In 1921 when Dempsey fought at night against Louis Firpo, the South American nearly knocked Dempsey loose from his intellect before Jack got through blinking at the lights.

In 1926 Gene Tunney hit him a mighty jolt in the first round and last July Jack Sharkey did the same thing.

"That all happened because I did not train for fighting under lights," says Dempsey. "This time I am doing it and the story will be different."

Dempsey Still Works; Tunney Deserts Camp

LINCOLN FIELDS, CRETE, Ill., Sept. 14.—As proof that all is rosy between Jack Dempsey and Leo P. Flynn, his manager, the latter today displayed a glittering diamond bracelet, which he said was a gift from the ex-champion to Mrs. Flynn, who soon will supervise Dempsey's cooking.

"And it's worth nine grand if it's worth a nickel," said Flynn. "That ought to give the lie to some of the newspaper accounts that harp on discord between Jack and myself."

Jack is understood to have engaged in another mysterious workout with sparring partners last night, but as the camp was barred to all save trusted employees and none of the locked out scribbles troubled to hire an airplane to fly over and see for himself, the story goes unconfirmed.

As a word of encouragement to out-of-town reporters who are fearful of losing their jobs, Flynn promised they would be admitted to one of these night sessions before Sunday.

Dempsey continued to rest conspicuously through today's daylight hours, but tonight, it is said, he will again become active under the flood lights of his camp arena.

AT NEW YORK:—Andy Divodi, Brooklyn junior welterweight, won decision over Tommy White, Houston, Texas (10).

'Hunch' Boys Backing Jack for Victory

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—The hunch players are making a sudden shift toward Jack Dempsey and proceeded today to back the veteran to regain his title.

The action is due to the view they have taken of the pre-fight proceedings which shows the history of 1926 being exactly reversed.

"Tunney is getting before this fight what Dempsey was handed before the battle of the Susquehanna," they argue. "And that means, if history just sort of repeats itself in a left handed way that Tunney, in this fight, will get what Dempsey got in Philadelphia, and that was a beating."

Prior to the 1926 affair Tunney's life was tranquil and peaceful. Dempsey's was hectic and agitated by an almost endless procession of law suits and a parade of process servers to his doors.

Dempsey this year is free from legal snares; Tunney is all tangled up in them. A social secretary has filed suit against him, action has been started by Tim Mara and also Max "Boo" Hoff.

The neat and gaudy total is over $300,000 and the boys do insist that Gene will pay and pay and pay—or they'll attach and attach and attach.

All of which has not contributed much to Tunney's peace of mind.

A year ago a story was bandied around that Dempsey had been offered a fortune to toss the title to Tunney. And now there's one around loose that a million was thrust at Tunney to influence him to surrender the kingship to the challenger Dempsey.

A year ago Dempsey was pretty much his own manager, running his own camp in his own way, with Gene Normile serving merely as a business agent. Billy Gibson was running Tunney's camp.

This season Leo Poisson, Flynn is running Dempsey's camp, while Tunney is dominating his own, permitting Gibson merely to serve as a sort of rubber stamp.

In 1926 Dempsey was the champion—and unpopular; Tunney the challenger, the "under dog" and the man for which millions were nothing. This year the entire situation, as regard the principals, is exactly reversed.

"And so" say the hunch players, "it seems as if Dempsey is sure to win and Tunney sure to lose, as a final act in the reverse English thing of 1926 and 1927."

However the wagering so far has been only trifling every where. The story that $1,000,000 was sent here to be wagered on Tunney is taken with a laugh. For if it really was sent it is being kept hidden. And that's no way to do with betting money.

All the betting brokers around here deny they received any part or parcel of the fund. They declare they have some money posted with them and have negotiated various wagers.

"But its small stuff so far," they report.

BABE GETS TWO; TOTAL NOW 52

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—With the Yankees having clinched their second successive pennant, interest in American league doings centered today on Babe Ruth's home run flurry. The two homers made by the sultan of swat yesterday gave him a total of 52, and he needs only eight more to break his 1921 record.

Ruth is not far behind his record pace. Yesterday he hit No. 52 in New York's 136th game, while in 1921 he hit his 52nd in the 130th game, on Sept. 7.

Lou Gehrig, erstwhile rival of Ruth in the home run race, is in a prolonged batting slump and has only 45 homers.

Boss Same Team

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Having clinched the American league pennant by trouncing Cleveland twice yesterday, will be opposed by Pittsburgh in the world's series.

While the Giants and Cardinals were splitting a double-header, and the Cubs were losing to Brooklyn, the Pirates increased their lead by smacking the Braves twice, 6 to 1 and 5 to 4. The Pirates are now three full games ahead of the Cardinals and Giants, who are tied for second place. The Cubs are two games behind the second place teams.

While Lee Meadows turning in his 18th victory, the Pirates beat their nemesis, Kent Greenfield, in the opener. The Braves shelled Aldridge off the landscape in the ninth inning of the second game but were stymied by Ray Kremer.

After small William Sherdel had trimmed them by a 5 to 2 score, the Giants ran amuck with the willow, knocking Jess Haines out of the box and winning the nightcap, 12 to 6. Terry, Jackson and Harper hit for the circuit. Bottomley starred at bat for the Cards, collecting two triples, two doubles and a single during the pot-livities.

Max Carey of Brooklyn made five hits in as many times at bat and stole a base, beating the Cubs single-handed. A four run rally by the Cubs in the eighth fell short by one run and Brooklyn won, 6 to 5. The Robins incidentally replaced the Braves in sixth place.

In clinching the pennant, the Yankees beat Cleveland twice by the same score, 5 to 3. Babe Ruth walloped homer No. 51 and No. 52, and Pipgras and Hoyt pitched. It was Hoyt's 21st victory.

Washington downed Detroit twice, 3 to 2 and 5 to 3, and knocked the Tigers out of third place. The Red Sox made the first page by trimming the Browns twice, 5 to 4 and 3 to 2, and the White Sox were given a 15 to 5 drubbing by the Athletics.

Because Clem Higgins (top) and Rufus King received the same number of votes when the University of Texas football team tried to name a skipper, the two will act this season as co-captains of the Steers.

Win Two From Braves, Beating Their Nemesis, Greenfield; Yanks Clinch Flag in American League.

Washington downed Detroit twice, 3 to 2 and 5 to 3, and knocked the Tigers out of third place. The Red Sox made the first page by trimming the Browns twice, 5 to 4 and 3 to 2, and the White Sox were given a 15 to 5 drubbing by the Athletics.

Because Clem Higgins (top) and Rufus King received the same number of votes when the University of Texas football team tried to name a skipper, the two will act this season as co-captains of the Steers.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Having clinched the American league pennant by trouncing Cleveland twice yesterday, will be opposed by Pittsburgh in the world's series.

While the Giants and Cardinals were splitting a double-header, and the Cubs were losing to Brooklyn, the Pirates increased their lead by smacking the Braves twice, 6 to 1 and 5 to 4. The Pirates are now three full games ahead of the Cardinals and Giants, who are tied for second place. The Cubs are two games behind the second place teams.

While Lee Meadows turning in his 18th victory, the Pirates beat their nemesis, Kent Greenfield, in the opener. The Braves shelled Aldridge off the landscape in the ninth inning of the second game but were stymied by Ray Kremer.

After small William Sherdel had trimmed them by a 5 to 2 score, the Giants ran amuck with the willow, knocking Jess Haines out of the box and winning the nightcap, 12 to 6. Terry, Jackson and Harper hit for the circuit. Bottomley starred at bat for the Cards, collecting two triples, two doubles and a single during the pot-livities.

Max Carey of Brooklyn made five hits in as many times at bat and stole a base, beating the Cubs single-handed. A four run rally by the Cubs in the eighth fell short by one run and Brooklyn won, 6 to 5. The Robins incidentally replaced the Braves in sixth place.

In clinching the pennant, the Yankees beat Cleveland twice by the same score, 5 to 3. Babe Ruth walloped homer No. 51 and No. 52, and Pipgras and Hoyt pitched. It was Hoyt's 21st victory.

Washington downed Detroit twice, 3 to 2 and 5 to 3, and knocked the Tigers out of third place. The Red Sox made the first page by trimming the Browns twice, 5 to 4 and 3 to 2, and the White Sox were given a 15 to 5 drubbing by the Athletics.

Clean Sweep Is Yank Polo Squad's Goal

By James L. Kilgallen.
 MEADOW BROOK, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Heavy favorites to win America's "Big Four" will thunder into action against Great Britain this afternoon determined to settle the international polo issue for 1927.

By winning today, the Americans, who routed the British, 13 to 3 on Saturday, can end the series and will retain the international challenge cup. The betting is 2 to 1 that they will do just that.

A British triumph, however, would necessitate a third contest as the series is being played on a two victory basis.
